A. TRANSFER OF COPYRIGHT AGREEMENT

Copyright to the above work (including without limitation, the right to publish the work in whole or in part in any and all forms of media, now or hereafter known) is hereby transferred to the ACM (for U.S. Government work, to the extent transferable*) effective as of the date of this agreement, on the understanding that the work has been accepted for publication by ACM. (Please see the joint author qualification listed on the reverse side of this form.)

However, each of the Authors retain the following rights:

1. All other proprietary rights except copyright (and the publication rights transferred to ACM), such as patent rights.
2. The right to reuse any portion of the work without fee, in future works of the author's own provided that the ACM citation and notice of ACM copyright are included.
3. The right to post their own author-versions of preprints and revisions, including versions covered by ACM copyright but not versions downloaded from the ACM Digital Library, in a personal collection on their own or their employer's server; such copies must be limited to noncommercial distributions and personal use by others and the ACM copyright notice must be attached. (See ACM Interim Copyright Policy, Version 3, Sec. 2.5, 2.6 regarding CoRR and Sec. 3.2)
4. The right of an employer who originally owned copyright to distribute copies of works of its author-employees within its organization.

This Form must be signed by the author or, in the case of a "work made for hire," by the employer and must be received by ACM, Inc. --See Box C-- before processing of the manuscript for publication can be completed. Authors should understand that consistent with ACM's policy of encouraging dissemination of information each published paper will appear with the following notice:

"Permission to make digital or hard copies of part or all of this work for personal or classroom use is granted without fee provided that copies are not made or distributed for profit or commercial advantage and that copies bear this notice and the full citation on the first page. Copyrights for components of this work owned by others than ACM must be honored. Abstracting with credit is permitted. To copy otherwise, to republish, to post on servers or to redistribute to lists, requires prior specific permission and/or a fee."

TO: Authors Submitting Papers for Publication by ACM
FROM: ACM Director of Publications
SUBJECT: ACM Copyright Procedures

Thank you for submitting a paper for publication by ACM, Inc. ACM's publications are read throughout the world and we must manage requests for reprinting, republishing, redistributing, digitizing, posting to servers, translating, anthologizing, and other actions. It is the policy of ACM to own the copyright on its technical publications to protect the interests of ACM, its authors and their employers, and at the same time to facilitate the appropriate reuse of this material by others.

United States Copyright Law requires that the transfer of copyright of each contribution from the author to ACM be confirmed in writing. (See Revised ACM Interim Copyright Policy, sections 2.1, 4.1, 4.2) It is necessary that authors sign either Part A or Part B of the ACM Copyright Form and return it with the manuscript to the publication's Editor at the address on the Form.

If you are employed and prepared your paper as part of your job, the rights to your paper may initially rest with your employer. In that case, when you sign the ACM Copyright Transfer Form, we assume that you are authorized to do so by your employer. If not, the Form should be signed by an authorized person.

*For jointly authored papers, an original signature is required from one (assumed senior) author only. However, we assume that all authors have been advised and have consented to the terms of this Form and this single author acts as duly authorized agent of the others.

Government employees who prepared the paper as part of their job, or authors whose papers are not copyrightable as part of certain Government contract work, are not required to sign Part A, but all co-authors outside the Government contract are.* Part B of the Form is to be used instead of Part A only if any or all authors are Government employees or the work was performed for a Government agency.

ACM authors have all the rights historically enjoyed by scientific authors, including the right to present orally the submitted (or similar) material in any form; the right to reuse in future works of the Author's own with notice and credit to ACM; the right to republish in works published by the employer, or for the employer's internal business purposes, in any form of media with notice and credit to ACM; the right to reproduce and distribute for peer review in reasonable quantities (see Revised ACM Interim Copyright Policy, sections 3 and 5.3); and all proprietary rights other than copyright.

Although it is not part of ACM's policy to grant authors or their organizations the sole right to approve permissions for republishing by third parties, ACM always seeks the approval of its authors, for jointly authored papers the first-named (assumed senior) author only, in weighing such requests. This is done as a matter of professional courtesy.
